Before You File

Overview

Bankruptcy is a legal procedure for dealing with debt problems of individuals and businesses. Specifically, it involves the filing of a case under one of the chapters of Title 11 of the United States Code (the Bankruptcy Code).

Note: An explanation of the terms used in bankruptcy is found below.

The two most common types of bankruptcy are Chapter 7 and Chapter 13.

In Chapter 7, your assets which are not exempt are turned over to a bankruptcy trustee (sometimes called “case trustee”), who then sells the assets, and uses the proceeds to pay all or a part of creditors’ claims. In exchange for turning over non-exempt assets, you are entitled to eliminate (discharge) most debts.

In Chapter 13, you make payments to a bankruptcy trustee over a three-to-five year period, depending on the type of debts you have, your assets, and your income and expenses. The trustee then distributes the funds to your creditors pursuant to your Chapter 13 Plan. Chapter 13 is quite complicated, and most people filing Chapter 13 cases without an attorney do not successfully complete them. You are therefore strongly encouraged to hire an attorney if you decide to file a Chapter 13 case. Many attorneys will allow you to pay a majority of the attorney fees as part of your Chapter 13 Plan.

For further information, the Administrative Office for the United States Courts has published a booklet entitled Bankruptcy Basics which provides detailed information about each type of bankruptcy filing. The Administrative Office also has a section on its website entitled Filing for Bankruptcy Without an Attorney, and has produced a number of online videos outlining various aspects of bankruptcy cases. Although these resources are not intended as legal advice, they can give you a broad overview of how bankruptcy works as you decide whether or not filing for bankruptcy is warranted given your financial situation.

Deciding Whether to File for Bankruptcy

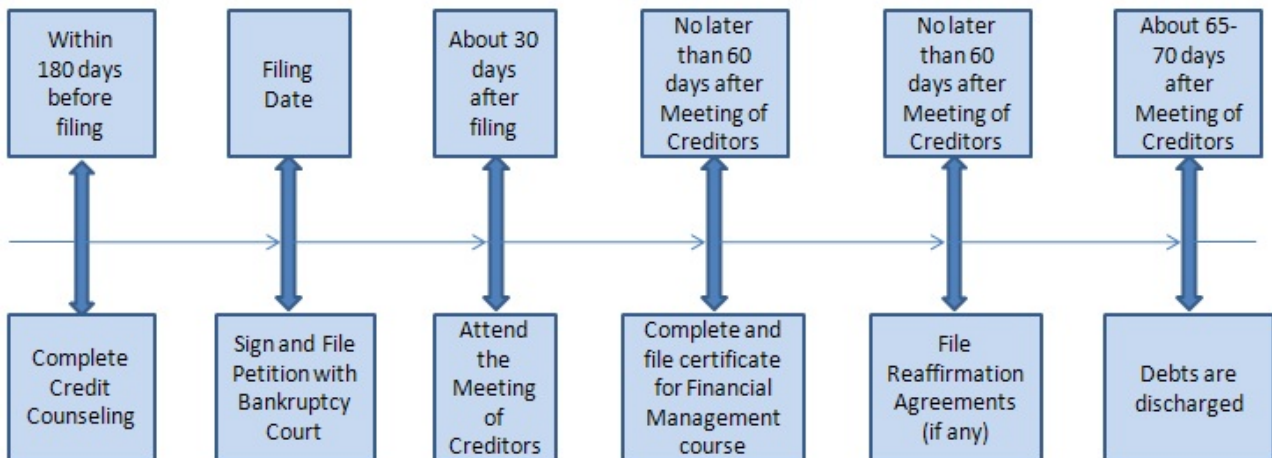

The decision to file for bankruptcy is a serious matter, and should be made only after careful consideration. Depending on your financial condition and the reasons for filing, the consequences of filing for bankruptcy protection may outweigh the benefits. The timing of the filing may be very important, and you should consider the following before filing for bankruptcy:

- There may be a filing fee required to file a bankruptcy petition. Please click here for a list of the fees associated with filing a bankruptcy.

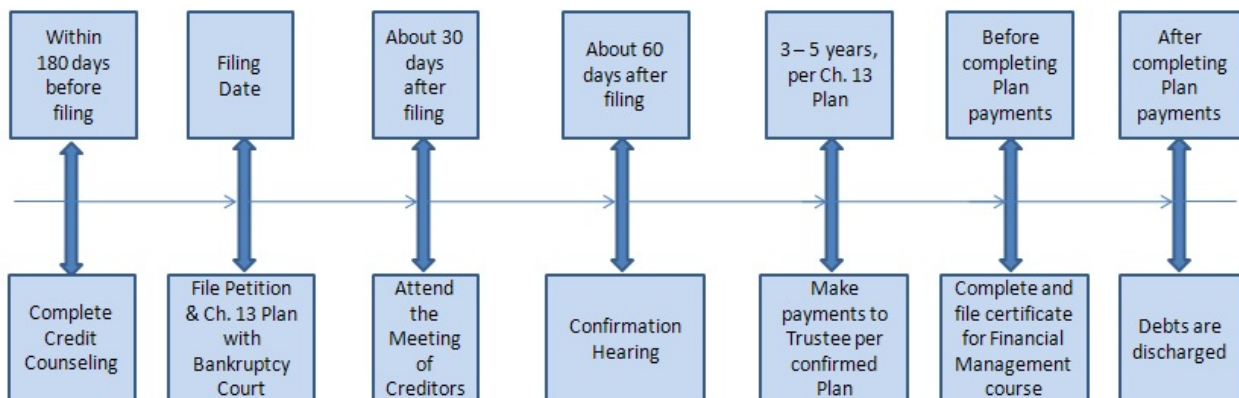

- You may lose property, belongings, and possessions that are not “exempt” under the law. See below for a discussion of exemptions in bankruptcy.
- Your right to retain state and federal tax refunds may become part of your estate if you file bankruptcy before you receive the refunds. As an example, if you file bankruptcy in October 2010, the bankruptcy trustee may be entitled to that portion of your state and federal tax refunds that you accrued up to the date you filed your bankruptcy, even though you may not receive the refunds for four or five months. Similarly, if you file bankruptcy after January 1, 2011 but before you either file your tax returns or receive any refunds, the trustee may be entitled to 100% of your tax refunds for 2010.
- Not all debts can be discharged in bankruptcy. See the discussion below concerning which debts can be discharged in bankruptcy.
- In some instances, transfers of property and/or payments made to (1) general creditors within ninety days prior to the filing of a bankruptcy petition, and/or (2) relatives, friends, or business associates prior to the filing of a bankruptcy petition, may be recovered by the bankruptcy trustee.
- Generally, a bankruptcy covers debts incurred prior to the date of filing of the bankruptcy case. If you incur additional debts after you file, they will not be discharged, and your ability to obtain relief in another bankruptcy case may be limited. For example, if you file bankruptcy, and a month later you are injured and incur a substantial amount of uninsured medical bills, those bills will not be discharged in your bankruptcy filing.
- A utility company currently providing service may terminate services if you do not pay a reasonable security deposit or provide other adequate assurance of payment within 20 days of the filing of the bankruptcy petition.
- Your Chapter 7 case could be dismissed or you could be required to proceed under Chapter 13 if your income is above the state median and you could repay your debts. See the discussion below regarding income/expenses (means testing).
- A bankruptcy filing can remain on your credit report for ten years, which may make it harder to obtain credit in the future.
- If you are “judgment proof,” you may want to consider not filing for bankruptcy as it will not provide any additional protection for your property. Being “judgment proof” means that all of your property, belongings, and possessions are exempt, and that you have no income which can be garnished.

- Filing for bankruptcy will require you to complete a wide variety of documents, and will also require you to provide documentation regarding your finances. Review the checklist below to make sure that you have everything that you need.

Filing for Bankruptcy

Legal Advice

It is strongly recommended that anyone considering filing bankruptcy consult with an experienced bankruptcy attorney. Many attorneys will provide you with a free initial consultation. When you file without an attorney, you are in essence acting as your own attorney. Keep in mind that the Bankruptcy Court, the U.S. Trustee, and case trustees are all forbidden by federal law from giving you legal advice. Legal advice includes the following:

- Advising you whether or not to file a bankruptcy petition
- Advising you which chapter to file under if you choose to file
- Advising you whether your debts, including taxes, will be discharged
- Advising you whether or not you will be able to retain your home, car, or other property after you file
- Advising you of the tax consequences of filing a bankruptcy case
- Advising you whether you should continue to pay a creditor or enter into a reaffirmation agreement with a creditor
- Advising you on how to properly list property, debts, and exemptions on your bankruptcy documents
- Advising you on the best procedure to accomplish a particular goal
- Explaining the meaning of a particular law or rule
- Explaining the result of taking or not taking an action in a case
- Helping you complete forms
- Telling you in which state to file your case
- Explaining who should receive proper notice or service
- Explaining bankruptcy procedures and rights

If you cannot afford an attorney, there are options for free or lower cost assistance:

- The Oregon State Bar has a Lawyer Referral Service which will direct you to an attorney who has agreed to provide limited consultation at reduced rates. Call (503) 684-3763 or toll-free in Oregon at (800) 452-7636. The Bar also offers a “Tel-Law” service where callers can listen to recorded information concerning bankruptcy. Call (503) 620-3000.
- The Lewis & Clark Legal Clinic provides services of law school students under the supervision of an attorney to low income clients. Call (503) 768-6500.
- Anyone who is considering the filing of a Chapter 7 can attend an informational Bankruptcy Clinic. In addition, if you live in Multnomah, Washington, Clackamas, Yamhill, Hood River, Wasco, or Columbia County and meet specified income requirements, you may be able to have a volunteer lawyer represent you without charge (although you still may be required to pay the filing fee). Call (503) 224-

4086 in Multnomah County, (503) 640-4115 in Washington, Yamhill, or Columbia County, and (503) 655-2518 in Clackamas, Wasco, or Hood River County.

- The Debtor-Creditor Section of the Oregon State Bar and Legal Aid Services of Oregon sponsor a bankruptcy clinic for residents of Jefferson, Crook, and Deschutes Counties. An informational class is open to the public, and those who meet Legal Aid's income guidelines may be able to have a volunteer lawyer represent them for free. Call (541) 385-6944 to register for the clinic.

Filing for Bankruptcy with the Help of a Bankruptcy Petition Preparer

Some people filing for bankruptcy use the services of a Bankruptcy Petition Preparer, a non-attorney who helps fill out the bankruptcy paperwork for a fee. If you are thinking of using a Bankruptcy Petition Preparer, you should be aware of the following:

- FEDERAL LAW REQUIRES all Bankruptcy Petition Preparers who help debtors file for bankruptcy to: (1) sign the bankruptcy documents; (2) provide their names, addresses, and social security numbers; and (3) list all fees that have been paid to them or are still owed to them.
- FEDERAL LAW PROHIBITS Bankruptcy Petition Preparers from: (1) providing legal advice; (2) signing their clients' names on documents; (3) collecting or receiving court filing fees; and (4) using the word "legal" in their advertisements.
- SOME PEOPLE HAVE BEEN VICTIMIZED by deceptive or dishonest practices by Bankruptcy Petition Preparers. Bankruptcy Petition Preparers may charge too much for their services or may give you bad information that harms you. It also may be hard to get a refund of any money that you pay to a Bankruptcy Petition Preparer or collect other damages that you suffer.

If you use a Bankruptcy Petition Preparer and later have complaints, please contact the United States Trustee's Office (503-326-4000 in Portland; 541-465-6330 in Eugene).

Credit Counseling and Financial Management (Debtor Education)

You must complete two instructional courses to be entitled to a discharge in a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 case – one before filing, and one after filing.

Credit Counseling Briefing. The Bankruptcy Code requires that individual debtors who file for bankruptcy relief receive a credit counseling briefing within 180 days before the bankruptcy filing. The briefing may be in-person, over the phone, or on the Internet, and must be provided by a nonprofit budget and credit counseling agency approved by the United States Trustee. Click here for a list of approved agencies. The counseling agencies charge a small fee for their services which may be waived on a case-by-case basis; consult with the counselor about the availability of a waiver. A certificate of completion of the credit counseling briefing must be filed with your bankruptcy petition.

Your case may be dismissed if you do not file the required certification, and you will not receive a discharge of your debts. In some cases, you may not be allowed to file another case for 180 days, or your protection under the Bankruptcy Code's automatic stay from your creditors may be limited.

If you are incapacitated or disabled (as defined by the Bankruptcy Code), or are on active military duty in a military combat zone, the requirement for credit counseling can be waived. LBF #100.3 must be used to file a motion for exemption when you file your petition.

Financial Management (Debtor Education). After filing a bankruptcy case, you must also complete a financial management instructional course (debtor education) in order to receive a discharge. Failure to complete the course and file proof of completion will result in your case being closed without a discharge. Click here for a list of agencies approved to provide the financial management course. As with the pre-bankruptcy counseling, there is a small fee for the course which may be waived on a case-by-case basis. Consult with the agency about the availability of a waiver.

Income/Expenses (Means Testing)

In a Chapter 7 case, the Bankruptcy Code contains a "means test" to compare monthly income and expenses to determine whether or not a Chapter 7 discharge would be presumed an "abuse" of Chapter 7.

The "means test" form (Official Form #B22A) requests information regarding your gross monthly income for six months prior to the filing of your bankruptcy case. However, some types of income (social security benefits, etc.) are not included for the means test calculation. Generally, if your average gross monthly income is below the median income in Oregon for your family size, or if your debts are primarily business debts, you only will have to fill out a limited portion of the "means test" form and your case will not be presumed to be an abuse. Even if your case is not a presumed abuse, your case could still be dismissed if the Court finds that it was filed in bad faith, or if your financial situation demonstrates abuse.

If your income is above the median for your family size and your debts are not primarily business debts, you will need to complete the expense portion of the "means test" form. Allowable expenses are primarily determined by IRS guidelines as opposed to actual expenditures. Your case may be presumed to be an abuse if you have a specified amount of income left over after expenses are deducted.

You may still be entitled to a Chapter 7 discharge even if your case is presumed to be an abuse, particularly if the figures in the "means test" form do not accurately represent your current circumstances (e.g., you lost your job or have a lower paying job). If a presumption of abuse exists, some party (usually the U.S. Trustee or a creditor) may file a motion seeking a dismissal of your case. If a motion is filed, and you are unable to rebut the presumption of abuse, the Court generally will enter an order allowing you a certain amount of time to convert your case to Chapter 13, or the case will be dismissed.

Evaluating Your Income - The “Means Test” in Chapter 7

Property You Can Keep (Exemptions)

You are entitled to keep (claim an exemption in) certain property when filing for bankruptcy. If you have lived in Oregon for two years or more, most of your exemptions will be determined by Oregon law. If you have not lived in Oregon for more than two years, most of your exemptions will be determined by the law of the state where you lived between 2 and 2½ years before filing.

If the value of property exceeds the amount of your exemption, it can be sold by the trustee and only the exempt amount returned to you. Generally, the value of property is neither the purchase price nor the replacement cost. Rather, the value is the price you would receive if you sold the property. For many items, such as household goods and clothes, the value is the price you might receive at a garage sale. Example: If you have car which is worth $5,000, it can be sold by the trustee and only the exempt amount returned to you.

Your property may be secured. This often means that you signed a contract to buy property (e.g., a house, a car) and agreed to make payments to the seller. If the seller retained a security interest in the property, your equity transfers to the estate when you file bankruptcy. Equity is the difference between the value of the property and the amount of your unpaid obligation. Examples: If you have a car worth $10,000 with a loan against it for $8,000, you will not lose the car because the $2,000 equity ($10,000 value less $8,000 loan) does not exceed the $3,000 exemption. On the other hand, if the car is worth $15,000, and the loan against it is $8,000, you will have $4,000 in “non-exempt equity” ($15,000 value less $8,000 loan less $3,000 exemption) in the car. In that circumstance, the trustee would sell the vehicle, pay off the $8,000 loan, pay you your $3,000 exemption, and use the remaining $4,000 to pay some portion of your other debts. Alternately, you can pay $4,000 to the trustee to keep the car.

Also note that even if a piece of property is considered exempt, it does not eliminate the interests of a secured creditor. In the first example above with a $10,000 car secured by an $8,000 loan, you must continue to make payments to the creditor even though the trustee cannot take the car from you. Failure to make those payments can result in the creditor repossessing the car.

Deciding which assets are exempt and how and if you can protect these assets from your creditors can be one of the more important and difficult aspects of your bankruptcy case. As noted above, one drawback of filing for bankruptcy is that you will lose non-exempt property as a condition of obtaining a discharge of debts. It is therefore extremely important to consult an attorney if you have any questions regarding the issue of exempt assets.

Typically, exempt assets (all subject to certain dollar limitations) include clothing, jewelry, home furnishings, vehicles, equity in your home, tools of the trade, etc. The most common exemptions and amounts allowed in Oregon are as follows:

Wages	Disposable (net) earnings for individuals are exempt unless they are in excess of the following amounts: paid weekly - $217.50; paid biweekly - $435; paid semi-monthly - $471.25; paid monthly - $942.50. If the disposable net earnings are more than the foregoing figures, then the lesser of (1) the amount by which the disposable earnings exceed the foregoing figures or (2) 25% of the disposable earnings, may not be exempt and can become a part of your bankruptcy estate. WARNINGS!

Filing for bankruptcy is a serious matter. Please note the following:

-  To ensure accuracy, you must carefully read all documents before you file them with the Bankruptcy Court. Your signature on many of the documents constitutes a certification under penalty of perjury that the information on the document is true and correct to the best of your knowledge.
-  You must list all of your interests in property, belongings, and possessions, as well as all of your debts, on your bankruptcy documents. You must be completely truthful in your dealings with the Bankruptcy Court and the trustee. False statements can result in your discharge being denied or revoked, and can subject you to criminal prosecution.
-  Failure to follow the laws and rules concerning bankruptcy (paying fees, filing documents, attending the meeting of creditors, etc.) can result in a dismissal of your case. If your case is dismissed, creditors may then resume collection efforts. If you refile, you may not receive all of the protections of the Bankruptcy Code.
-  Any installment payments must be received by the Bankruptcy Court on or before the due date. Your case may be dismissed if you are late on any installment payments.
-  You cannot dismiss a Chapter 7 case without permission from the Bankruptcy Court. For example, if you file a Chapter 7 case and the trustee finds assets which are not exempt, the Bankruptcy Court may not allow you to dismiss your case.

Types of Debts -- Secured, Unsecured, and Priority Debts

Secured Debt - A secured debt is a debt that is backed by property. A creditor whose debt is “secured” has a right to take property to satisfy a “secured debt.” For example, most homes are backed by a “secured debt.” This means that the lender has the right to take the home if you fail to make payments on the loan. Most people who buy new cars on credit give the lender a “security interest” in the car. This means that the debt is a “secured debt” and that the lender can take the car if you fail to make payments on the car loan. Secured debts are to be listed on Schedule “D” of your bankruptcy documents.

Priority Debt - A priority debt is a debt entitled to priority in payment, ahead of most other debts, in a bankruptcy case. The Bankruptcy Code contains a listing of priority debts. The most common examples of priority debts include domestic support obligations and many taxes. Priority debts are generally not discharged in bankruptcy. If you have questions deciding which of your debts are entitled to priority status, you should consult an attorney. Priority debts are to be listed on Schedule “E” of your bankruptcy documents.

Unsecured Debt - A debt is unsecured if you have simply promised to pay someone a sum of money at a particular time and you have not pledged any real or personal property to secure that debt. For example, most credit card debts are unsecured. Most unsecured debts are dischargeable in bankruptcy, but as noted below, there are exceptions to discharge. Unsecured debts are to be listed on Schedule “F” of your bankruptcy documents.

Fees

If you cannot pay the filing fees in full at the time of filing, you may submit with your petition an Individual Debtor's Application to Pay Filing Fees in Installments (LBF #110).

If an Application to Pay Filing Fees in Installments is granted, you may not pay an attorney or petition preparer any further money for services rendered until all of the filing fees are paid in full.

In a Chapter 7 case, the typical installment payment schedule is $102 thirty days after filing, $102 sixty days after filing, and $102 ninety days after filing.

In a Chapter 13 case, at least $125 must be paid at the time of filing. The remaining installment must be paid within 45 days after filing.

Please note that your case may be dismissed if any installment payment is not received by the Bankruptcy Court on or before the due date.

The Bankruptcy Court may waive the filing fee for an individual Chapter 7 debtor if his or her income is less than 150% of the official poverty line applicable to a family of the size involved, and is unable to pay that fee in installments. If you feel that a filing fee waiver is warranted, you must file with your petition a fully completed Application for Waiver of the Chapter 7 Filing Fee (Official Bankruptcy Form #B3B). If the Bankruptcy Court denies your application for a filing fee waiver, the judge will normally enter an order requiring the payment of the filing fee in installments. In that case, failure to make the installment payments on or before their due dates may result in the dismissal of the bankruptcy case.

Where to File

Bankruptcy petitions must be filed in the appropriate office of the court as follows. You may file your documents by either mailing them to the Court, or by bringing them to the Court in person.

If you reside or have a principal place of business in these counties: Benton, Coos, Curry, Douglas, Jackson, Josephine, Klamath, Lake, Lane, Lincoln, Linn, Marion, or Polk, file your documents in Eugene at: U.S. Bankruptcy Court, 405 E. 8th Avenue #2600, Eugene, OR 97401.

If you reside or have a principal place of business in any Oregon county not listed above, file your documents in Portland at: U.S. Bankruptcy Court, 1001 S.W. 5th Avenue #700, Portland, OR 97204.

In order to make sure that you have all needed documents before you file a case, please review the checklist at the end of this document.

After You File

Documents You Must Provide to Trustee and United States Trustee

After the filing of your case, you are required to provide certain documents to the trustee assigned to your case (sometimes called the “case trustee”) and to the U.S. Trustee. The name, address, and phone number of the trustee will be on the notice you receive from the Bankruptcy Court shortly after you file. The address of the U.S. Trustee will be provided below.

Documents Required to be Provided to the Trustee before the Meeting of Creditors. Within 7 days before the date set for the meeting of creditors, you must send to the case trustee a copy of your most recently filed federal income tax return.

The trustee will accept a computer printout of your return information called a “tax return transcript” available from the IRS website free of charge. You may also order one by phone at (503) 415-7361 or in person at an IRS office. Alternately, you can obtain a copy of a previously filed federal return by submitting Form 4506 to the IRS. There is a $57 fee for each year requested, and it will take 4-6 weeks to receive the copy.

Documents to Provide to the Trustee at the Meeting of Creditors. The case trustee will generally require you to provide the following documents at the meeting of creditors:

- Photo ID and Proof of Social Security Number.
- Statements from all your accounts covering the filing date (checking, savings, money market, mutual funds, brokerage); statements should show balance on day before filing date AND prior 30 days of account information; must also show name and account number.
- Evidence of current income covering date of filing (most recent pay stubs); might include more than one so that unpaid wages for filing date can be calculated.
- Copy of most recently filed state income tax return.
- Statements from your retirement accounts, including pensions, 401(k), IRA, annuities, or other accounts; include details showing type of account and verifying exempt status.
- Real property tax statements for all parcels of real estate in which you have any interest, including equitable interests.
- Car registrations or titles for all your motor vehicles.

- If divorced within two years before filing, the divorce judgment with all documents incorporated in the judgment, and any modifying orders.
- If you have a domestic support obligation (child or spousal support), a Panel DSO Notice Information Sheet regarding those obligations, including address for holder of claim (or statement that debtor not allowed to have address); required even if you are current on payments.

Documents to Provide to the U.S. Trustee. Within 14 days after you file your bankruptcy petition, you must send to the United States Trustee a copy of any paycheck stubs, profit and loss statements, or other evidence of income from any source received within 60 days before the filing of your case. For Portland cases, send these items to U.S. Trustee, 620 SW Main St #213, Portland, OR 97205-3026. For Eugene cases, send these items to U.S. Trustee, 405 E 8th Ave #1100, Eugene, OR 97401. Do not file these documents with the Bankruptcy Court.

Please note that failure to provide these documents to the U.S. Trustee and the trustee can result in the dismissal of your case.

Protection From Creditors (Automatic Stay)

Once your bankruptcy petition is filed, an “automatic stay” goes into effect which in most circumstances stops creditors from most collection actions - phone calls, letters, lawsuits, garnishments, repossessions, and foreclosure. Note, however, that if you had any prior bankruptcy cases dismissed within one year prior to the filing of the new case, the stay may not go into effect, or may be effective for only a short period of time (such as 30 days) unless you take action to impose (establish) or continue the stay. In addition, in certain situations, a creditor may file a motion for “relief” from the automatic stay. For example, if you are behind on car payments when you file your petition, the lender may file a motion for relief from the stay seeking the Bankruptcy Court’s permission to repossess the car.

A creditor that attempts to collect a debt after the bankruptcy is filed without permission from the Bankruptcy Court is in violation of the automatic stay. You should immediately notify the creditor in writing that you have filed bankruptcy, and provide them with either the case number and filing date or a copy of the petition that was filed. If the creditor still continues to try to collect, you may be entitled to take legal action against the creditor for damages resulting from the violation of the stay. Any legal action brought against the creditor will be complex and will normally require representation by a qualified bankruptcy attorney.

Meeting of Creditors

The Bankruptcy Code requires that you personally attend a meeting of creditors (sometimes also called “341 meeting” or “creditors’ meeting”) and answer questions under oath. Meetings of creditors usually are conducted between 21 and 60 days after the petition is filed and are held at a number of locations throughout the state. The case trustee appointed by the United States Trustee presides at the meeting of creditors. The meeting is recorded, and the trustee will place you under oath and ask you questions about your bankruptcy documents, property, debts, financial condition and other matters. This information enables the trustee to understand your circumstances and decide if there are assets that could be liquidated for the benefit of your creditors.

Your creditors are notified that they may attend the meeting of creditors and question you about your assets and any other matter relevant to the administration of the case. However, creditors rarely attend these meetings and are not considered to have waived any of their rights if they do not appear.

The meeting usually lasts less than ten minutes but may be continued if the trustee is not satisfied with the information you provide or if the trustee or others need more time to review your financial circumstances and question you about them. If you fail to appear or fail to provide the information requested at the meeting, the trustee may request that the bankruptcy case be dismissed or that you be ordered by the court to cooperate.

Secured Debts – Reaffirmation and Redemption

As noted above, a debt that is backed by real or personal property is considered a “secured” debt. A creditor whose debt is “secured” has a legal right to take possession of the property as full or partial satisfaction of the debt if the borrower fails to make payments on the loan. In general, in a Chapter 7 case, you must either reaffirm the debt, redeem the property, or surrender the property securing the debt to the creditor. Note, however, that some liens can be avoided (eliminated) in bankruptcy. See LBR 4003-2.

A reaffirmation agreement is an agreement by which you become legally obligated to pay all or a portion of a debt that could otherwise be discharged in your bankruptcy case. All reaffirmation agreements must be filed using Official Form #B240A (preferable) or Official Form #B240A/B Alt. In either case, Official Form #B27 must be attached as a cover sheet. To be timely, you must file the agreement within 60 days after the first date set for your meeting of creditors.

Reaffirmation agreements are strictly voluntary. They are not required by the Bankruptcy Code or other state or federal law. You can voluntarily repay any debt instead of signing a reaffirmation agreement, but there may be valid reasons for wanting to reaffirm a particular debt.

If a reaffirmation agreement is filed, the Bankruptcy Court will schedule a hearing which you must attend. The judge will consider whether the reaffirmation agreement is in your best interests and then decide whether to approve it. Since a reaffirmation agreement takes away some of the benefits of bankruptcy, you should seek legal advice before agreeing to a reaffirm a debt. Even if you sign a reaffirmation agreement, you have 60 days after the agreement is filed with the Bankruptcy Court (or the date of entry of discharge, whichever is later) to change your mind and cancel the agreement. You must notify the creditor if you decide to cancel the agreement. If you reaffirm a debt, do not cancel the agreement, and fail to make the payments as agreed, the creditor can take action against you to recover any property that was given as security for the debt, and you may remain personally liable for any remaining debt after the property is sold.

Redemption, by contrast, allows you to keep personal property by paying the lender the replacement value of the property (the price a retail merchant would charge for property of such kind, considering the age and condition of the property at the time the value is determined) without deduction for costs of sale or marketing. For example, if you have a $6,000 balance on a car loan, but the replacement value of the car is only $4,000, you can redeem the car by paying $4,000 to the creditor, and obtain clear title.

Redemption must be made in one lump sum payment to the creditor. If you and the creditor agree to the redemption, a stipulated order of redemption is required. If the creditor or trustee opposes the redemption, you may file a motion for redemption using LBF #717.20 within 45 days following the first date set for the meeting of creditors. See LBF #717.10 for redemption procedures.

Elimination of Debts (Discharge)

A discharge means that you no longer have a legal obligation to pay debts that are discharged. You will receive an order granting a discharge of debt unless for some reason a general discharge of debts is denied. In a Chapter 7 case, the discharge order typically is entered within 75 days after the meeting of creditors. In Chapter 13 cases, the discharge order typically is entered upon the request of the trustee following completion of the debtor's plan payments. The granting of a discharge (1) is not a dismissal of the case, (2) does not determine the property, if any, that a Chapter 7 trustee will administer, and (3) does not always automatically result in the closing of the case.

The discharge is an order which prohibits your creditors from making any attempt to collect debts that have been discharged. For example, a creditor is not permitted to contact you by mail, phone, or otherwise, to file or continue a lawsuit, to garnish wages or attach property, or to take any other action to collect a discharged debt from you. A creditor who violates the discharge order can be held in contempt and required to pay you damages and attorney fees. However, even if a debt is discharged, a creditor may have the right to enforce a valid lien, such as a mortgage or security interest, against the collateral after the bankruptcy, if that lien was not avoided or eliminated in the bankruptcy case.

Even if you have the legal right to discharge a debt, you can formally reaffirm the debt, or redeem collateral which secures a debt. You also can voluntarily repay any debt that has been discharged.

Most unsecured debts are discharged if the debt existed on the date the bankruptcy case was filed. However, under some circumstances, your bankruptcy discharge could be withheld or denied; some debts are not dischargeable; and the dischargeability of other debts could be denied, depending on particular circumstances.

Debts that Cannot be Eliminated

A discharge can be denied by the Bankruptcy Court for either all debts (denial of debtor's discharge) or for one particular debt (denial of the dischargeability of a particular debt).

Denial of Debtor's Discharge - In the following circumstances, you are not entitled by law to a discharge of any debts if:

- In a Chapter 7 case, you are not an individual debtor (corporations, partnerships, etc.).
- In a Chapter 7 case, you received a discharge in a Chapter 7 or Chapter 11 case filed within eight years or (with certain exceptions) received a discharge in a Chapter 12 or 13 case within six years of the date you filed your current case.
- In a Chapter 7 case, you filed a waiver of discharge and the Bankruptcy Court has approved it.
- In a Chapter 13 case, you received a discharge in a Chapter 7 case filed within four years, or a discharge in a Chapter 13 case filed within two years, of the date you filed your current case.

If you are not entitled to a discharge because of a discharge entered in a prior case, the Bankruptcy Court will typically issue a Notice of Intent Not to Grant a Discharge.

Under certain circumstances, your right to a general discharge can be denied by the judge. This usually results from some major misconduct. In order for a discharge to be denied for any of these reasons, a party in interest (such as a trustee or creditor) must file an Adversary Complaint objecting to discharge within sixty days following the first date set for the meeting of creditors. The most common examples of misconduct are:

- You transferred or concealed property with the intent to defraud creditors or the bankruptcy estate;

- You concealed, destroyed, mutilated, falsified, or failed to keep or preserve books and records about your financial condition and/or business transactions;
- You failed to satisfactorily explain a loss of assets;
- You lied on your bankruptcy documents or at your meeting of creditors;
- You failed to turn over non-exempt assets to the trustee;
- You refused to obey a lawful order of the Bankruptcy Court.

Denial of the Dischargeability of a Particular Debt - Most debts are dischargeable in bankruptcy. The Bankruptcy Code, however, states that certain individual debts are not dischargeable, and that the creditor does not need to take any Court action to have such a debt declared non-dischargeable. The most common examples of non-dischargeable debts are:

- Debts for certain taxes and debts incurred to pay those taxes;

Notes:

You can generally discharge personal income tax liability if -

- ☞ You have filed the tax return at least two years before filing for bankruptcy,
- ☞ More than three years have passed since the return was due (generally April 15 following the year when the income was earned, unless you received an extension of time to file, in which case the three-year period starts running on the last day to file under the extension), and
- ☞ The tax has been assessed for at least 240 days before you file for bankruptcy.

As this is a very technical area of the law, you are strongly urged to consult with an experienced bankruptcy attorney if you are seeking to discharge taxes in bankruptcy.

- Debts for domestic support obligations (child and spousal support) or those arising out of a divorce decree or separation agreement (except that non-support marital debt can be discharged in Chapter 13);
- Debts for most student loans;

- Debts for most fines, penalties, forfeitures, or criminal restitution;
- Debts for personal injury or death caused by your operation of a motor vehicle, vessel, or aircraft while intoxicated;
- Some debts which were not properly listed on the bankruptcy petition and schedules;
- Debts for which a Reaffirmation Agreement has been approved; and
- Debts which could have been listed in a prior bankruptcy case if your discharge was denied or waived in that case.

The dischargeability of other types of individual debts may be denied if the creditor files, within sixty days after the first date set for the meeting of creditors, an Adversary Complaint to deny the dischargeability of the debt. If such a complaint is timely filed, the judge ultimately will decide whether or not the debt will be discharged. If a complaint is not timely filed, the debt will be discharged. Such "potentially non-dischargeable" debts include:

- Debts incurred by fraud, false pretenses, or materially false statements regarding financial condition;
- Debts incurred as a result of fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, or for embezzlement or larceny;
- Debts incurred for willful and malicious injury by you to another entity or property of another entity (except that such debts can be discharged in Chapter 13).

Note: You may receive a discharge even if a complaint to deny the dischargeability of a single debt is still pending. The debt in question will not be discharged until the judge rules on the objection.

CAUTION: These lists include many examples of non-dischargeable debts, but Sections 523 and 1328 of the Bankruptcy Code should be reviewed for complete lists.

Credit Reporting

The Bankruptcy Court has no authority over credit reporting agencies, and does not report to any of the agencies. The bankruptcy petition, schedules and other documents are all public documents. Credit reporting agencies regularly collect information from the petitions filed and report the information on their credit reporting services. Under the provisions of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the fact that an individual filed a bankruptcy can remain on the credit report no longer than 10 years. According to the Consumer Data Industry Association, if a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is successfully completed, the credit reporting industry retains the information for only seven years rather than the ten years allowed by law (to encourage debtors to file under that chapter).

Bankruptcies may be taken into consideration by any person reviewing a credit report for the purpose of extending credit in the future. The decision whether to grant you credit in the future is strictly up to the creditor and varies from creditor to creditor depending on the type of credit requested. There is no law that prevents anyone from extending credit to you nor will a creditor be required to extend credit to you. (However, a Chapter 13 debtor is generally prohibited from incurring credit while the case is pending without the approval of the Chapter 13 trustee.)

The best way for you to obtain credit in the future is to generate adequate and regular income and to pay all of your financial obligations in a timely and responsible manner. Many creditors will not deal with you in the future unless you have already established credit with someone else and demonstrated that you are reliable. In general, it is recommended that, after the filing of a bankruptcy, you learn to live within your income and not request credit which is not absolutely necessary. The Federal Trade Commission has a number of educational publications on its website to help consumers address credit and financial issues.

Bankruptcy Terms

This glossary of bankruptcy terms explains, in simple ordinary terms, many of the legal terms that are used in cases filed under the Bankruptcy Code.

Adversary Proceeding - A lawsuit arising in or related to a bankruptcy case that is started by filing a complaint with the Bankruptcy Court. Some types of adversary proceedings are set forth in Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7001.

Automatic Stay - An injunction that automatically stops lawsuits, foreclosures, garnishments, and all collection activity against the debtor the moment a bankruptcy petition is filed.

Bankruptcy - A legal procedure for dealing with debt problems of individuals and businesses; specifically, a case filed under one of the chapters of Title 11 of the United States Code (the Bankruptcy Code).

Bankruptcy Code - The informal name for Title 11 of the United States Code (11 U.S.C. §§ 101-1532), the federal bankruptcy law.

Bankruptcy Court - The bankruptcy judges in regular active service in each federal judicial district.

Bankruptcy Estate - All property in which the debtor has an interest, even if it is titled or held by another person.

Bankruptcy Petition - The document that starts the bankruptcy case. There are official forms for bankruptcy petitions.

Chapter 7 - The chapter of the Bankruptcy Code providing for “liquidation” (i.e., the sale of a debtor’s nonexempt property and the distribution of the proceeds to creditors).

Chapter 13 - The chapter of the Bankruptcy Code providing for adjustment of debts of an individual with regular income. Chapter 13 allows a debtor to keep property and pay debts over time, usually three to five years.

Claim - A creditor’s assertion of a right to payment from the debtor or the debtor’s property.

Collateral - The property that can be taken by a secured creditor if the debtor fails to pay or perform as promised.

Confirmation - Bankruptcy judge’s approval of a payment plan in Chapter 13.

Consumer Debtor - A debtor whose debts are primarily consumer debts.

Consumer Debts - Debts incurred for personal, as opposed to business, needs.

Creditor - One to whom the debtor owes money or who claims to be owed money by the debtor.

Credit Counseling and Financial Management (Debtor Education) - Generally refers to the two required courses debtors are required to take in individual bankruptcy cases: (1) Credit Counseling is a briefing from a non-profit budget and credit counseling agency that individual debtors must receive before filing for bankruptcy; and (2) Debtor Education is a course in personal financial management that individual debtors must take after the bankruptcy case is filed in order to receive a discharge.

Current Monthly Income - The average monthly income received by the debtor over the six calendar months before commencement of the bankruptcy case, including regular contributions to household expenses from nondebtors and income from the debtor's spouse if the petition is a joint petition, but not including social security income (and certain other payments made if the debtor is the victim of certain crimes).

Debtor - A person who has filed a petition for relief under the Bankruptcy Code.

Debtor Education - See Credit Counseling and Financial Management \(Debtor Education\)

Defendant - An individual (or business) against whom a lawsuit is filed.

Discharge - A release of a debtor from certain debts set forth in the Bankruptcy Code. A discharge releases a debtor from personal liability for certain debts known as dischargeable debts and prevents the creditors owed those debts from taking any action against the debtor to collect the debts. The discharge also prohibits creditors from communicating with the debtor regarding the debt, including telephone calls, letters, and personal contact.

Dischargeable Debt - A debt for which the Bankruptcy Code allows the debtor's personal liability to be eliminated.

Equity - The value of a debtor's interest in property that remains after liens and other creditors' interests are considered. Example: If a house valued at $100,000 is subject to an $80,000 mortgage, there is $20,000 of equity.

Liquidation - A sale of a debtor's property in order to use the proceeds for the benefit of creditors.

Local Bankruptcy Forms (or LBFs) - Bankruptcy forms that are used "locally" (that is, in the District of Oregon only).

Means Test - Section 707(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code applies a "means test" to determine if an individual debtor's Chapter 7 filing is presumed to be an abuse of the Bankruptcy Code.

Meeting of Creditors, Creditors' Meeting, or 341 Meeting - The meeting of creditors required by Section 341 of the Bankruptcy Code at which the debtor is questioned under oath by the trustee and possibly others about his/her financial affairs.

Motion - A request, filed with the Bankruptcy Court, for a particular action to be approved by the judge.

Motion For Relief From Automatic Stay - A request by a creditor to allow the creditor to take action against the debtor or the debtor's property that would otherwise be prohibited by the automatic stay.

No-Asset Case - A Chapter 7 case where there are no assets available to satisfy any portion of the creditors' unsecured claims.

Non-dischargeable Debt - A debt that cannot be eliminated in bankruptcy. Examples of non-dischargeable debts include debts for alimony or child support, certain taxes, debts for most government funded or guaranteed educational loans or benefit overpayments, debts arising from death or personal injury caused by driving while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs, and debts for restitution or a criminal fine included in a sentence on the debtor's conviction of a crime. Some debts, such as debts for money or property obtained by false pretenses and debts for fraud or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, may be declared non-dischargeable only if a creditor timely files and prevails in an Adversary Proceeding.
